

This record marks the band's maturity as well as yet another change in its style. Changes in style have become a trademark to this Italian band. After 4 albums, their debut mini-album and an outstanding live record, the OJM project shifts its route, counting on a revolutionary lineup comprising the founders and ever-present David Martin (vocals) and Max Ear (drums) admirably completed by the former bass player Andrew Pozzy (now playing guitar) and by Stefano Pasky (organ and bass piano).

The 10 tracks in this new album define OJM as the ultimate paragon for the Italian stoner-rock scene, conveying vibes that are consistent with the manifesto of this genre, yet sailing in neat strokes towards amazing bordering territories.
